360Civic Works With City of San Diego on Award-Winning Website

Orange, CALIF. (September 3, 2016) - 360Civic, an Orange County based web development, design and technology firm, was part of the team that worked on the new municipal website for the City of San Diego (sandiego.gov). On September 1, the website finished second in the Center for Digital Government's Best of the Web Awards for the City Portal category.

360Civic delivered its contribution to the site on time and under budget.

"We are very proud to have our client recognized this way, and to have been a part of this project," said 360 CEO Ron Zayas. "It's a tribute to our team of strategists, developers and writers who go above and beyond for all of our public sector clients."

According to the Center of Digital Government, the awards are recognition of a "commitment to colorful technological innovation and the improvements in service delivery that come along with it."

In honoring the San Diego site, which receives an average of 1.7 million unique visitors every month, the Center cited its user-friendly, function-based navigation, its mobile responsiveness, and its use of an open source CMS that will make it easier to keep up with future Web trends.
